GALION MAN DROWNED AS CAR PLUNGES INTO RIVER

FINNS REPULSE SOVIET ATTACK ON 3 FRONTS

Russians Throw Heavy Reinforcements Against Mannerheim Line.

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Feb. 13—The Finns announced today that their army had repulsed heavy Soviet attacks in the Summa sector of the Karelian isthmus and also beaten back Soviet assaults northeast of Lake Ladoga and in the Kuhmo sector further north.

The Red army blasted away at the Mannerheim line in the Summa sector for the 12th day today with indications that reinforcements were being thrown into the attack.

One source said five Soviet divisions, including reserve lines, were occupied in that sector, although no definite figures were available. (The strength of a Russian division is estimated at 15,000 men.)

Artillery Guns Roar

The deep-throated bark of artillery continued steadily as the Karelian isthmus battle went on.

The vigorous onslaught followed a short week-end decline, but the Finns said they were repelling the invaders at every point.

The Russian drive spread along the isthmus to other points. The Finnish command said a battle was continuing on the neck of land between Muolajarvi and the river Vooski; that an attack at Taipale was repulsed, and that Russian attempts to cross the ice of the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga had been thwarted.

The Finns did not mention their casualties, but said the Russians suffered heavy losses.

A famous Finnish athlete, Gunnar Hockert, was reported killed, however, in the isthmus fighting Sunday. Winner of the 5,000-meter run in the record time of 14:22.2 in the Olympic games of 1936, Hockert also held the world record of 8:14.8 for the 3,000-meter run. He was the second noted athlete to die in the war, speed skater Birger Wasenius having been killed in December while leading a ski patrol across Lake Ladoga.

MOSCOW, Feb. 13—Within a week, the high command for Soviet Russia's Finnish campaign has reported capture of 61 "defensive fortifications" on the Karelian isthmus where runs the Finns' Mannerheim line.

Today's communique announced that 32 of these positions were wrested from the Finns yesterday. Among them were "12 iron and concrete artillery forts."

On the basis of today's report, the drive against the isthmus line —vortex of the war—is gaining momentum.

Finnish equipment seized by Red troops in areas of defensive fortifications captured in the past few days, the communique said, includes 230 machine-guns and 82 guns — whether field pieces or hand weapons was not clear.

BRITAIN EXPANDING AIR, NAVAL PATROLS

Launch Quick Drive To Smash Nazi Mine Blockade.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 13—Great Britain is expanding her air and naval coastal patrols suddenly and swiftly to smash Germany's mine-and-bomb blockade of British shipping.

The admiralty announced it was recruiting 10,000 additional fishermen for naval patrol duty in the war against German mines. The air force, with a big British plane construction program already in effect, was disclosed to be buying heavy planes from "at least one other air-skilled neutral" besides the United States.

(This cautiously-described nation was believed to be Italy.)

The admiralty announced that German action had sunk six ships —three British and three neutral —during the past week. British losses were the Beaverburn, Munster and Chagres, totalling 19,585 tons. The neutrals lost were the Estonian Anu, the Netherlands Burgerdijk and the Swedish

Hepburn Boy Who Accidentally Shot Former Marionite Freed to Father

Buford Loney Released; Hurt in Crash on Way to New Home.

KENTON, Feb. 13 — Buford Loney, 15, whose case attracted wide attention last fall when he accidentally killed his best friend at Hepburn, is in Findlay hospital receiving treatment for injuries suffered in a traffic mishap Sunday a short time after the Hardin county juvenile court released him to his father, Ray A. Loney of Flint, Mich.

Buford suffered injuries including a fractured collar bone when the car in which he and his father were enroute to Flint skidded from a highway near Williamstown, O., near Findlay and struck a utility pole. The youth's condition is not regarded as serious.

Held Since Shooting

Buford had been in the custody of Juvenile Judge G. B. DeWitt here since last November when a shotgun he was carrying accidentally discharged and killed Arthur Combs Jr., 16, of Hepburn, former Marion youth, while the two were returning from a hunting trip.

The case took many unusual turns after the shooting.

Judge DeWitt ordered Buford held in Hardin county jail on charge of violating a probation previously granted when Loney had pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Hepburn post office.

The dead boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Combs, Hepburn summer resort operators, and former Marion residents immediately went to Buford's aid. They posted bond with Hardin county authorities so he could attend their son's funeral in Marion and announced they wanted to adopt Buford.

Adoption Plea Denied

The adoption move failed, however, when both Buford's mother, Mrs. Pearl McClaren of Hepburn, and Judge DeWitt refused to grant permission for such a step. Mrs. McClaren said she did not want to part with Buford while Judge DeWitt declared that Buford "wouldn't have a chance to make good" in Hepburn because of the Combs boy's great popularity and the attitude of many Hepburn residents toward Buford.

As a result, Buford was sent to the Ohio Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus for examination and bureau specialists upheld the judge's earlier decision by advising against permitting the boy to return to Hepburn. The bureau's report showed that the youth is normal in every respect, discouraging plans being considered by Judge DeWitt to send Buford either to the boys' industrial school at Lancaster or to a "boys town" near Cleveland.

Power of Gospel Subject of Pastor at Union Service

An impressive rededication service, with ministers and their wives, church officers, leaders of women's work and ushers taking part, was held at last night's union evangelistic service at Epworth Methodist church.

The rite followed a call from the guest minister, Dr. J. Harren Hastings of Seattle, Wash., to those who would "be willing to take a stand for Christ."

More than a thousand persons were in the congregation, including a large group of young people.

Dr. Hastings' sermon was on "The Transforming Power of the Gospel." The Scripture was from Matthew 26:69 and 27:8.

After carefully comparing the lives of Peter and Judas, Dr. Hastings related that Judas, after he had betrayed Christ, went out and hung himself, thus branding himself a quitter. "I have no use for a quitter," Dr. Hastings declared. He said that the hardest thing for many to reconcile with God in the hereafter will be the fact that many stopped trying to

BELIEVE ROOSEVELT, FARLEY IN ACCORD

Wisconsin Move Gives Clue to Future Plans.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Formation of a Roosevelt-Farley delegate slate in Wisconsin strengthened the belief of many politicians today that the Chief Executive and the postmaster general are in accord on the Democratic presidential campaign.

One senator in close touch with Farley told reporters that the cabinet member and national Democratic chairman was "resolved to do one of two things—nominate himself or Mr. Roosevelt."

The Wisconsin Democratic state convention, meeting last night at Wisconsin Rapids, declared that the President should be drafted for a third term. Another resolution expressed the hope that Farley "may continue in public life in the interest of the people of the nation."

The convention adopted a slogan of "officially indorsed Roosevelt-Farley delegates" for its slate in the April 2 primary. National committeeman Charles E. Broughton said, however, that the mention of Farley did not mean he was indorsed as an alternate presidential choice or as a vice presidential candidate.

Farley has given his consent to entering a delegate slate pledged to him in the Massachusetts presidential primary, but has made no other direct indication that he is a candidate for office.

They were married at 4 a. m. by Justice of the Peace George Marshall, after getting him out of bed. They also aroused a deputy clerk to issue the license.

PORTEUS TO BE ON JOB FRIDAY

New Agent Prepares To Reopen Marion County Farm Office.

Marion county's new agricultural extension agent, Homer S. Porteus, whose appointment was approved yesterday by the trustees of Ohio State university after a month's delay, will take over his duties here Friday.

This was announced today by O. C. Croy of Columbus, supervisor of extension for northeastern Ohio, who came to Marion to inform various county farm leaders of the settlement of the situation.

The office of the agent, located in the post office basement, will be reopened Friday or a little before. It has been closed for approximately two weeks pending action of the university trustees who have the final say in approving appointments.

Now on Job at Delaware

Mr. Porteus, now agent for Delaware county, was recommended by a committee of local residents and by the state extension service late last year. The recommendation was given to the university trustees but contrary to all past experience of extension service officials the trustees delayed action pending investigation.

Some persons in the county charged that "politics" had entered the situation. This was denied by Dr. C. J. Altmaier of Marion, a member of the board of trustees. He said that as far as he was concerned any qualified candidate would be acceptable.

There originaly had been several candidates for the Marion county job in addition to Mr. Porteus.

Unanimous Approval

Dr. Altmaier, asked today concerning yesterday's meeting of the university trustees, said there was no discussion of the matter before approval was given. All the trustees voted for the approval he said.

Mr. Porteus was informed of the approval of the trustees last night by Mr. Croy.

A few days will be needed to finish up the work at Delaware. Paul Cunningham of Wooster, the new Delaware county agent, has not yet arrived at Delaware, although he was there about a month ago to select a residence. Mr. Cunningham has been serving as assistant Wayne county agent.

Mr. Porteus was born and raised in the vicinity of Coshocton and his parents now live about a mile south of there. He attended high school in Coshocton county, obtained his bachelor of science degree in agriculture at Ohio State university in 1935. He worked for about a month in extension work elsewhere in the state before coming to Marion late in 1935 to be assistant to the late S. L. Anderson, whose place he is taking. Mr. Porteus was assistant here until April of 1936 and since then has been Delaware county agent.

Selected Last Year

Mr. Porteus was selected to succeed Mr. Anderson, who died late last year, at a conference of a representative county committee and state extension leaders in December.

Mr. Croy also announced today that Miss Leta Gigax, Marion county home demonstration agent since May 1938, will return to her work here Friday. She has been working out of the Columbus office on a temporary basis for the last several weeks because of the confused situation here.

Mr. Porteus' appointment was made effective as of Feb. 16, this Friday, following the custom of the extension service, which dates appointments at the middle of the month.

His original appointment would have brought him to Marion Jan. 16.

Situation Cleared

The action of the trustees yesterday cleared up the entire situation, Mr. Croy commented today. He said the sole desire of the extension service now is to look ahead constructively to the future. Possibly some time may elapse before the complete extension program is in full swing here, but it will not be long, he said. He gave assurance that there will be 4-H club work here this spring.

Accompanying Mr. Croy to Marion was H. W. Harshfield, state 4-H leader.

The extension service is a completely cooperative enterprise, financed by the federal, state and county governments. The program carried on depends to a great extent on what the people themselves want and express a desire for in conferences, Mr. Croy explained. The state service, available to all counties, is handled through Ohio State university.

Appropriations for 1940 Voted by City Council

$199,795 Operating Fund Is Less Than Amount Spent Last Year; Relief Problem Discussed.

The city's funds for 1940—with the outstanding exception of money for poor relief—were set up last night as city council passed its annual appropriation ordinance.

For general operating purposes, $199,795 was listed, $5,224 less than was spent for operation in 1939. However, the 1940 appropriation is almost exactly the same as the appropriation of $199,087 made at the beginning of 1939.

The ordinance also set aside funds for the hospital, garbage department and street work, the grand total coming to $396,513.92. Last year the corresponding total was slightly less, $392,179.49.

But of this not a penny was for direct relief, the administration seeking other sources of revenue to meet this problem.

Occupational Tax Mentioned

Among other sources, special taxes were prominently mentioned during an informal meeting before the regular session of council at city hall—special taxes requiring no vote of the people. Most prominent was an occupational tax, of the type in effect here about 1924.

However, no action on relief was taken. Mayor Snare advised the councilmen to study the situation carefully and said it may be necessary to call a special council meeting in the near future to decide on relief policy. Relief funds are now exhausted.

Other matters before council last night:

Confirming the mayor's appointment of Irving L. Dutt of 440 South Grand avenue to the city park board.

Authorizing rehiring of Floyd G. Browne as technical supervisor of the sewage treatment works.

Hearing of complaints from citizens regarding the Eastman Trucking Co. of 805 Henry street.

Presentation of several petitions for various types of action.

Acceptance of the annual police and firemen's pension fund reports; statements that the funds are adequate for 1940.

The appropriation ordinance, biggest item in the night's business, presented no great changes from the 1939 financing plan.

Clerk for Auditor

One change was the addition of $600 for a clerk in the auditor's office, which is necessary, Mayor Snare said, in view of the fact the city plans to inaugurate the requisition system of purchasing. Under the new plan, department heads or others who in the past have bought supplies without consulting the auditor must now obtain the auditor's approval first. The auditor must approve the requisition and certify there are sufficient funds on hand to pay for it.

The mayor said it is not likely that bulk buying will be adopted, at least not at present.

The police department received $33,550, compared with $32,395 spent last year. Additional department members account for the increase. Of the total, $32,000 is for salaries.

The fire department was granted $62,060, compared with $60,898 spent last year. This increase also comes largely in salaries. Of the total, $60,300 is for salaries.

Both the police and fire departments last year received funds from a special police and fire department tax levy of a few years ago. The funds were exhausted last year.

A total of $57,070 was set aside for the hospital fund, compared with $62,084 spent last year. Mayor Snare said if more funds are needed later on, there probably will be an additional appropriation. Only $46,200 was appropriated for the hospital at the beginning of last year.

Half-Year Appropriation

Salaries of health department officials and also funds for some other health items were appropriated only for a half-year, pending investigation of a new plan of financing. For administration $1,886 was set aside and for inspections $975. For the entire year the appropriations would be about double. Another $100 was also set up for quarantines.

Other general fund appropriations by items follow (unless otherwise noted, there is no substantial difference between the 1940 and 1939 figures.)

Council $1,505; clerk $1,635; mayor $2,435; auditor $2,700 (last year $2,000, additional $600 for clerk hire and $100 for stationery and printing); treasurer $1,050; solicitor $2,600; legal advertising $200; municipal court $2,175; municipal court staff $6,600 (additional $200 for incidentals); jury and witness fees $250; civil service commission $200; police and fire telegraph $600; humane officer $240; service department administration $3,000 (additional $700 for incidentals to pay for ... burials and ... which previously ... separate appropriation ... ing $2,100; street ... sewage ... SCUTTLED SHIP CREW RESCUED

British Cruiser Takes Germans Aboard After They Set Fire to Vessel.

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 13—Rear Admiral Sir Henry Harwood told The Associated Press today that the crew of the German freighter Wakama, after setting their ship afire yesterday off the Brazilian coast, had been taken aboard a British cruiser.

Sir Henry, commander of British forces in the south Atlantic, said in an exclusive interview that ten officers and 36 men of the Wakama's crew had been picked up in lifeboats by one of the British patrol vessels.

Sir Henry's flagship, the cruiser Hawkins, entered port here last night. The cruisers Shropshire and Dorsetshire yesterday were in the waters off Brazil where the Wakama was intercepted and fired by her own men.

Because she was considered a menace to navigation, the burning Wakama was sunk, Sir Henry said, by the British cruisers that intercepted her. He would not say which British ship delivered the finishing stroke.

"I didn't see the Wakama burning," he said, "but I know she burned and sank because of a communication I received from the other cruiser.

"I understood they finished her off so she would not menace other shipping," he said.

Plane Sights Victim

When asked if a British scouting plane had been the first to spot the richly laden 3,771 ton freighter, Sir Henry said:

"That is correct."

PRESIDENT'S BUDGET FOR NAVY SLASHED

House Committee Makes Reduction of $111,699,699.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—A $111,699,699 slash was made in President Roosevelt's budget for the navy today by a house committee which recommended appropriations of $966,772,878, and urged that the nation build battleships and cruisers "superior" to those abroad.

The cut, from the President's figure of $1,078,472,577, was the largest yet made by the appropriations committee in any single budget recommendation, but the committee said the fleet's needs could be "adequately met" with the smaller sum.

Included in the measure was $1,000,000 to start work on a $3,000,000 project designed to develop the tiny Pacific island of Guam as a naval "lookout" post.

In sending the navy bill to the house floor, the committee also cut $16,216,250 from the amount of "contract authorizations" recommended in the budget. ... such authorizations ... contract ... [illegible]

NABS FUGITIVE IN ERIE YARDS

Youth Who Escaped from Reformatory Captured Here by Detective.

Harold Smith, 24, of Lima, who fled with a companion from the Mansfield reformatory early Sunday morning, was captured here last night by R. V. Barnt of Dayton, an Erie railroad detective.

The youth was taken into custody in the Erie yards while he was apparently waiting to board a freight train. He offered no resistance and admitted he had fled from the Mansfield institution, the officer reported.

Officer Barnt, who is a former resident of Marion, called Deputy Sheriff Gene Geissler and took the youth to the Marion county jail. He was held there last night and this morning was turned over to B. F. Owen, a reformatory officer who came here from Mansfield.

Smith and his companion, Joe Froilcher, 21, of Cincinnati, fled from the reformatory after sawing their way to freedom from their locked quarters, it was reported. Smith said he and his companion had parted company shortly after the escape and that Froilcher apparently had headed for Cincinnati.

Smith is serving one to fifteen years for burglary and larceny, having been committed from Allen county. Froilcher was serving a 10 to 20 year sentence on a charge of robbery.

MISHAP WEST OF DELAWARE

George Chyba Imprisoned in Submerged Auto After 15-Foot Drop.

George B. Chyba, 43, Galion road machinery salesman, was drowned last night when the car he was driving plunged into the Scioto river five miles west of Delaware.

The accident apparently occurred shortly after 8 p. m. when the Chyba car, westbound on State Route 37, failed to round a slight bend in the highway near a bridge, crashed through a guardrail and hurtled into the river, officials reported. A corps of nearly 30 officers and volunteers worked more than two hours before they were able to remove the auto and the victim from the river.

After leaving the highway, the car went off the edge of a wide stone abutment at the east end of the bridge and then hurtled through the air approximately 50 feet before striking the water, State Patrolmen B. P. Hughes and David Weissert of Marion reported. The river is approximately 15 feet lower than the highway at this point, the officers said.

Visiting Near Delaware

Officers were told that Mr. Chyba, former general manager of the American Crushed Rock Co. of Delaware, had been visiting a former business associate, Clyde Owens, who lives on a road east of the river. The two men decided to visit relatives of Mr. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cryder, who live west of the river and were enroute to the Cryder home in separate autos when the mishap occurred.

Mr. Owens said he was driving his own car, following the Chyba car, but was unaware of the accident until Mr. Chyba failed to appear at the Cryder home. When Mr. Chyba failed to appear, Mr. Owens started to search for him and was informed of the accident by motorists assisting in removing the automobile from the river.

Discovered by Passersby

The accident was discovered about 8:30 by Hobart Artnur and Stanley Humphrey, farmers of west of Delaware, who noticed the broken guard rail while driving to a rural general store nearby. When they learned at the general store that no report of an accident had been received there, the men returned to the bridge and discovered the automobile almost entirely submerged. Two red tail lights were still burning on the Chyba car.

The men notified the Delaware county sheriff's office and the deputies and highway patrolmen were sent to the scene to direct removal of the automobile. In addition to a group of officers composed of Deputy Sheriffs Earl Fravel and Robert Milligan of Delaware, State Patrolmen Norman Brunn and E. E. Smith, both of Columbus, and the Marion patrolmen, a large group of farmers and state highway department workers soon reached the scene of the accident and assisted in the work.

Chicago Industrial Adviser To Speak Next Sunday.

Problems confronting business today and factors in relationships between government and industry will be discussed here next Sunday afternoon at the fifth of a series of public programs sponsored by the Marion Community Forum association.

The Forum program will be held at Edison Junior High school, starting at 2:30 o'clock, and like other meetings in the series will be open to the public without charge.

Leading the discussion will be Dr. Alfred P. Haake of Chicago, economics adviser for the National Association of Manufacturers, who will speak for one hour and then take part in an open discussion period in which members of the audience will have an opportunity to participate.

To Discuss Problems.

Members of the Forum's program committee pointed out that the problems confronting business affect such a large number of individuals and have created so much controversy in recent years that such a discussion becomes a necessary part of any "town hall" series. Dr. Haake is expected to discuss problems facing industry today such as unemployment, unionism, governmental control, regulating production and long-term planning.

Before entering the industrial field, Dr. Haake was a member of the economics department faculties at the University of Wisconsin and Rutgers university, once serving as head of the department at Rutgers. Later he engaged in industrial research for a large advertising agency.

Is Industrial Adviser.

At present he serves as an adviser to several furniture manufacturers and dealers association as well as representing the National Manufacturers association.

In 1935 he organized the Economic Forum in Chicago which was designed to make economics intelligible and interesting to the layman and since then has been devoting much of his time to public speaking.

D. T. Mills, president of the Marion Community Forum, will preside.

Leap Year Verses Among 1940 Valentines

Marion's swains and lasses will be doing their part Wednesday in marking the 100th anniversary of the American Valentine industry, judging from a preview jaunt around the town.

The lasses are going to have the lads on the run this year, too. Leap Year valentines on several counters are good for chuckles, thus:

"Ah's jest bin waitin' fo dis day
An' it won't find me nappin'!
Jest look befo' yo leap—dey say,
So, Look Out, Boy, Ah's Leapin'!"

Valentine historians say that it was in 1840 that this country went into the business of making its own heart palpitators. This year it is estimated that sweethearts will send 3,000,000 valentines to the objects of their affections.

Valentine types come in cycles, according to Sy Seidman of New York who has a collection of the missives. It is his belief that lacey ones are most popular in times of war and worry and that comics reach their height in boom times.

"Slam" Valentines

Marion counters still offer the penny comics, but even more devastating are the "slam" valentines that are beginning to come into their own. Witness:

"I must confess there's something
I bet you've never known,
Whenever you're around I've found
I want to be alone!"

Another has a cheery "Hello" on the cover and inside a comic face and the salute "Funny Face!" Still another, decorated with an ugly duckling, carries this rhyme:

"A dinky little Valentine,
And sort of homely, too,
But that's the kind (I always find)
Reminds me most of you."

Quite to the point is another Leap Year threat. The last line is on the inside and the descriptive picture shows the gal brandishing a shiny razor:

"Yo' betiah look out—
Dis am Leap Year,
Wid all dis 'Leap Yeah' business
I'se done lost mah self-restraint—
So either yo's mah Valentine,
Or else big boy, yo AINT."

Besides the missives, Marion's romantics may send singing greetings—to the tunes of such ear tensers as "Lilacs in the Rain," "Scatterbrain," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "Happy Birthday"—they may send corsages with names or initials—the most valentine-ish are white carnations or gardenias, with the name or initials, or a wee heart outlined in red—or candy, perfumes, or solitaires.

"Singing Valentine" Problem

The singing greetings had the men at the two telegraph offices a bit on the fence the other day. In large cities a special "singing staff" is on hand to trill out special greetings the year 'round, but the local offices will depend on the managers to do the vocalizing. One of the men said if he gets any singing greetings to send in Marion he's going to clear the office and lock the door before he begins his stunt.

The telegraph companies have the greetings all made up in forms. There are two greetings to the tune of "Scatterbrain," one of which goes like this:

"You've been courting me for ages
You've been wasting lots of time
Love within me rages
Won't you be my Valentine."

To the tune of "Lilacs in the Rain" some lass may hear this:

"Dan Cupid's dart has scored a hit
My wounded heart is off a bit
But Ill gladly bear the pain
If my love's not been in vain
Be mine, forever mine, my Valentine."

Form Greetings

For those who don't find a missive that says just the right thing, or those who have no native gift for verse, the telegraph companies have form greetings. Here are a few:

No. 219—"Please save my heart from being wrecked. Send Cupid's answer to me collect."

No. 221—"Violets are blue and I'll be too, if you don't say 'Yes, I love you'."

No. 237—"Sorry I can't be with you today, so I'm sending my love this speedy way."

No. 241—"Be my Valentine, be my honey. We'll live on love and daddy's money."

No. 400—"You're dearest to me of all your sex. All I can say is x x x."

No. 412—"Please say by return wire that you'll be my Valentine."

No. 411—"Let the wires hum a merry air to a Valentine I hope will care."

Some of the more elaborate valentines — they run from 50 cents to $5—have real jewelry decorations. Bracelets, necklaces and pins adorn the handsome missives.

One clerk was telling her little girl of having sold a $1 valentine to a young man. Piped up the child: "I'll take the dollar any day."

Camera History of Valentines

A pictorial history of Valentines, photographed from the collection of Sy Seidman of New York by The Associated Press Feature Service, is presented herewith. The U. S. valentine industry is 100 years old this year.

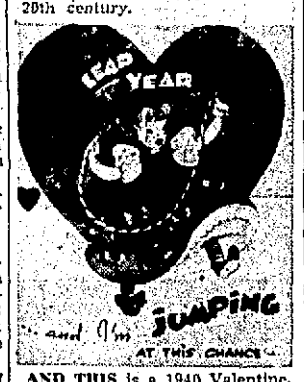

HERE IS AN 1840 Valentine printed in the spirit of the early American handmade work of art. Before that, Valentines were imported from Europe. England furnished the fine lace ones.

IN THE GAY NINETIES they poked fun until it hurt. This one carried the inscription: "No man of sense would e'er incline to have you for a Valentine."

VALENTINES THAT would stand up alone closed in on the comics in the early part of the 20th century.

AND THIS is a 1940 Valentine.

6 Sub-Zero Nights, Heavy Snows Mark January Weather

January, 1940, coldest in years, is a "gone but not forgotten" month.

Six sub-zero nights, one sub-zero day, two zero nights, days and days and nights and nights of cold, nearly 15½ inches of snow and several fog-enveloped nights left a mark on Marion.

Coal piles melted as if by magic as hungry furnaces and stoves were fired to the hilt to counteract the piercing cold.

Average temperatures for the month was 17.7 degrees, according to records of Observer E. H. Raffensperger. The monthly mean was 8.35 under the average for the month.

The highest temperature for the 31 days was 47 and the minimum was 15 below—coldest night in Marion since January of 1936 when the mercury slid to 18 below. The record maximum for the month is 74, established in 1906.

Snowfall for the month measured 15.40 inches, heaviest fall in recent years, but considerably under the 30 inches in 1918, the 23 in 1915 and 20 in 1920. Heaviest single fall was three inches on the seventeenth.

Unusual in weather annals of recent years, there was only one day last month when there wasn't at least a trace of snow on the ground. That was on the fourteenth, the same day that the maximum temperature of 47 was recorded.

Twelve days of the month were cloudy, eight was clear and 11 were partly cloudy, records show.

LIONS CLUB HEARS DR. CARL W. SAWYER

"Leadership" Subject of Talk; Necessary Qualities Listed.

"A true leader does not merely strive for an ideal, he lives for it," Dr. Carl W. Sawyer told members of the Marion Lions club when he spoke at their luncheon meeting yesterday noon at Hotel Harding on "Leadership."

He enumerated the essential qualities of leadership as "self-reliance, self-control, ability to direct others and obey orders; unselfishness, willingness to accept suggestions, fearlessness and capability of assuming responsibility.

Two factors have hindered the development of leadership in Marion, he said, first that "older heads are not making way for younger men," and secondly, "they're not helping the younger men."

"The future," he said, "is in the hands of the young men, just as the present has been made by our elders. Any movement now should be upward, since we start at scratch; 1940 should be the year to accomplish things."

Referring to the practice of medicine during his discussion, Dr. Sawyer asserted that there no longer is "any romance in medicine." He pointed out that the "subject of socialized medicine and the great ratio of physicians to the population" have done away with the romance of the profession.

Dr. Sawyer was introduced by Robert R. Bush.

A new member, Harry Lazear, was introduced.

MARION MAN HURT IN COLLISION SOUTH OF HERE

Russell Hiatt, 49, of 121 South Grand avenue, Marion insurance agent, suffered injuries including face lacerations and a fractured rib when the automobile he was driving figured in a collision at the intersection of two county roads seven miles south of Marion Saturday afternoon.

Attendants at City hospital described his condition as "good" today.

The Hiatt car collided with an auto driven by Raymond F. Wykoff of 611 Windsor street, state highway patrolmen reported. Following the impact both cars traveled several yards into a field. Mr. Wykoff escaped uninjured despite the fact that his car was badly damaged. Mr. Hiatt was brought to the hospital in the Merle H. Hughes ambulance.

A chemical preparation has been invented that waterproofs textiles permanently, withstanding laundering, dry cleaning and all known solvents.

ICE MAKERS PLAN AD DRIVE IN NEWSPAPERS

By The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 13.—The American ice industry will spend $500,000 in advertising—most of it in newspapers—in 1940, Hurley G. Hurt of Chicago, advertising director of the National Association of Ice Industries, told the Kansas Ice Men's association today.

"Stress will be placed upon the use of local newspapers by ice companies, which are expected to use newspapers more as basic advertising media," he said.

CITES OVERCROWDING IN STATE HOSPITAL

Doctor Declares Other Medical Facilities Are Adequate.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—The Ohio State Medical association today described state hospitals as overcrowded and "inadequate," but said other medical facilities in Ohio were sufficient to meet the needs."

"The present capacity of state institutions for mental and nervous diseases, the feeble-minded and the epileptic is insufficient," the association reported. "Every one of the 12 mental hospitals is overcrowded, x x x that is true also of our public tuberculosis sanitoriums.

"With the exception of these institutions, the medical facilities in Ohio are sufficient to meet the needs. We have an adequate number of competent medical personnel, and the distribution of physicians and hospital beds is close to th etheoretical standard."

The report said only 15 Ohio counties were without hospitals, and that in each case "excellent facilities are available in immediately adjoining counties." No county is without a practicing physician, and in all but two there are fewer than 2,000 residents for each doctor "which is theoretically held to be the proper ration."

The association commended changes in the Ohio relief law placing medical care on the same status as food, clothing and shelter as part of direct relief.

"Both the medical profession and the agencies for public assistance have accepted the principle that complete medical services for the indigent should be provided at public expense," Dr. Parke G. Smith of Cincinnati, association president, commented.

"If they (local relief administrators) can not now fulfill their obligations to the indigent x x x because of lack of funds, larger relief appropriations must be made. No person will be denied the medical service he requires simply because he can not pay for it, x x x but the entire burden can not be carried by the medical profession alone."

Dr. Smith expressed belief group medical care plans under sponsorship of local medical societies may provide the answer to the problems of medical service for low income families.

Council Votes 1940 Appropriations

special WPA levy passed years ago. With only $7,000 and left for this year, it ary to devote more of the street money to materials. last year "went easy" on ar street funds, anticipe exhaustion of the spe money, and now there is ntinual fund on hand for on street work as well WPA work.

From the auto tag revenue, is appropriated for 1940, d materials getting about each of the total. Last ,000 was appropriated and spent $22,000 spent.

Gasoline Tax Fund

From the gasoline tax revenue, was appropriated for this year, compared with $49,500 at the first of last year. According to records of the mayor's office, only $36,947 was spent from gasoline revenue last year.

Within these funds, a larger proportion of money is set aside for materials than last year.

The appropriations in most instances came close to the amounts which the city is expected to receive in revenue this year.

The general fund appropriation was $199,795, compared with a certification of $201,456.76.

The garbage department appropriation was $23,465, compared with a certification of $30,021.82.

The hospital appropriation was $57,970, and the certification $63,008.32.

The gasoline tax appropriation was $53,100 and the certification $64,605.27.

The auto tag appropriation was $35,000 and the certification $39,598.84.

Certifications Explained

Mayor Snare said the certifications, for the general fund at least, were based on an 85 per cent collection of taxes so that the city is virtually assured of getting as much as expected and possibly more.

The original certification for the fund was only $196,000, but since the first of the year another $5,500 in inheritance taxes has been made available.

Another feature of the appropriations is the $25,000 for water hydrant rentals. Under an agreement reached with the Marion Water Co. last year the company will rebate 10 per cent of the bill this year, $2,500. Last year 20 per cent was rebated. Rebates will continue three years after this year at which time the present water rate ordinance expires and a new one must be established.

Much of last night's discussion by council was held in the mayor's office before the regular meeting. After going over the appropriations briefly, the mayor began with a discussion of relief.

He presented a letter from Relief Director Frank S. Burns who asked the city for instructions on what to do in the absence of relief funds. He asked for written authorization to proceed issuing relief on a credit basis if the city plans to continue relief. No action was taken on the letter.

Relief Situation Discussed

However, the letter opened up discussion of the relief situation.

Mayor Snare commented that the people apparently indicated by their disapproval of the two tax levies recently that they do not want to finance relief in that manner. He added that it appears there is still going to be relief and that the "chances are the city is going to have to pay for it."

For the study of council, he said the following sources of funds are available:

Income tax—a tax assessed on ability to pay, but difficult to collect, requiring a rather complicated machinery.

Occupational tax—rather similar to income, since the amount of the tax probably would be based on the type of work the taxpayer is doing. Thus a banker would pay more than a clerk. In 1924 the city had such a tax, raising funds for current expenses.

Sewer tax—About the same as a property tax, persons using the city's sewers paying a rate for tapping in.

Use of state revenue—About $25,000 is available from auto tag revenue, but it would have to be paid back in little more than a year. Another $2,800, enough for about a half month of relief, could come from other fees.

Delinquent tax bonds—Mayor Snare estimates that possibly $50,000 could be raised this way, but due to the fact that nearly $200,000 worth of such bonds have already been issued, he feels a further issue would be rather risky. The bonds would be secured by delinquent taxes to be collected in the future.

The mayor said that if relief is purely an emergency, then taxes should be set up to meet it on that basis. If it is a permanent problem, then taxes should be set up on a permanent basis.

Says State Action Needed

He said the legislature should recognize the problem, if it is permanent, and arrange for proper financing. He contended the state is equipped to levy and collect taxes more economically than a city, but that the city is better equipped to administer the relief economically.

Until the state does take some definite action, it is the task of the city to "decide whether we're not going to have any more relief or whether we will set up some funds for it," Mr. Snare declared.

He said it is his understanding it is within council's power to enact legislation opening up any of the fund sources listed.

Councilman W. P. Cass wondered if the city could levy an income tax and City Solicitor Kenneth A. Robinson said such taxes have been approved in other states and probably would be here. He added that such a city tax is difficult to collect.

Several councilmen pointed out that an income or occupational tax would also require persons working in the city but living outside to help support the relief load. In the past this has been a sore spot with the city, many Marion employes living in the surrounding countryside and villages and paying no city taxes.

Probable Needs Outlined

Councilman Don Biggert asked how much money is needed to handle only direct relief for this year. It was estimated that $6,000 a month or $72,000 a year would handle it on the present basis, but that if WPA is abandoned or sharply curtailed, then about $8,000 a month or $96,000 a year would be needed. Of course, some of this, probably 35 per cent or so, would come from the state.

Councilman Walter A. Dorsey asked if they city could not levy an occupational tax on a month-to-month basis, the rate depending upon the need. Solicitor Robinson said he believed not.

Mr. Dorsey favored a flat rate for all employed persons, mentioning for example $1 month.

Councilman M. Basil Williams objected, contending such a tax would be unfair and that the amount should depend on how much a person earned.

Councilman George Primm asked if the tax would be taken from the worker's pay envelope before he received his pay and was told that it probably would be.

"Then it'll be the most unpopular tax ever levied here," he said. "When you take part of a man's pay before he gets it, then he's mad."

Temporary Delay Suggested

Councilman Cass suggested that since the voters didn't seem to want the tax levies at the recent election, the city likewise should "not excite ourselves too much now in regard to financing relief."

He suggested it might be wise to wait a while and let the people become aware of the seriousness of the problem and then possibly submit a levy proposal at the May primaries.

Mayor Snare asked what would be done for money in the meantime.

Councilman Earle Johnson suggested it might be wise to drop relief for a couple of weeks and see how many people get jobs. He said he has experiences leading him to believe some of the relief clients don't want to work.

Mayor Snare added that relief has been a "temporary problem so long it's become permanent."

The mayor also quoted Grover Cleveland as once saying that it is the duty of the people to support the government, then paraphrased it, saying that it appears it is the duty of government to support the people.

County's Responsibilities

The relationship of Marion county government to the relief problem was discussed, as was the entire relief set-up.

The mayor explained that the state deals with counties as units and that there must be a coordinating officer (Frank S. Burns serves in this county) to represent all the subdivisions of the county. The city pays 85.99 per cent of the cost of such coordination. In the last three months of 1939 the cost was $1,499.72, the mayor said.

Councilman Biggert wondered how much money the county commissioners were spending on direct relief in the areas outside of Marion. He also wondered why it is necessary for the county to spend several thousand dollars a year for "relief of veterans of foreign wars."

At this point the mayor told council to "think it over" and added that it may be necessary to call a special meeting to decide "if you want relief continued or if you want to stop at the end of the odd cents."

Opposes Going Into Debt

Mr. Biggert said he does not believe the city should go into debt for relief.

An additional relief investigator, to chop off unworthy cases now on relief and to keep off new unworthy cases, might be profitably employed, the mayor said.

The regular session of council opened with presentation of a petition signed by 48 property owners protesting against the Eastman Trucking Co. of 805 Henry street, declaring it a nuisance.

A. L. Kelly of 812 Uncapher avenue said any time of day or night the trucks roar in and out, they block alleys, run over sidewalks, load and unload with great confusion. He commented that debris is thrown into the alleys.

Albert L. Wells of 818 Uncapher avenue said he had purchased his property 15 years ago with the understanding it was a residential section but that a series of businesses were operated in the building now used by the trucking company. They were "nothing compared with the outfit there now," he said.

Complains About Noise

Mrs. Amy Martin of 836 Bellefontaine avenue said the company workers use profane language frequently and that there is almost continual noise. She said the company was operating at 644 Bellefontaine avenue until recently and that there was plenty of open space for such operations there.

R. A. Martin of 836 Bellefontaine avenue said that something should be done about the company out of justice to the property owners.

Ralph Moyer of 705 Woodrow avenue also complained and said the situation probably would be worse in the summer.

Councilman Williams wondered if the city's new zoning ordinance went into effect before the company moved to its new location.

The matter was referred to the ordinance and franchise, police and street and alley committees for immediate investigation. The service director was ordered to investigate the complaint the trucks were running over the sidewalks.

Pearl Aldrich of 473 Bartram avenue protested against use of sidewalks by trucks at the Malo Bros. junkyard. He said the walks have been crushed down to below the street level and that water collects on them. The complaint was referred to the street and alley committee.

Appointment Approved

Appointment of Irving L. Dutt of Grand avenue to the park board was approved. He will succeed Carter Patton, serving until Dec. 31, 1942.

Council also authorized the service director to enter into a contract with Floyd G. Browne, reemploying him as technical supervisor at the sewage treatment works at not more than $50 a month. The salary is the same as last year.

Councilman Williams asked for a received assurances from Mayor Snare that the park board would give due attention to Roosevelt park in Oakland Heights in its work this year. Mr. Williams has been seeking attention for the park for some time.

The request of W. R. Lawrence for transfer of a property at the southeast corner of Church street and Pennsylvania avenue from the residential to the commercial zone was tabled to the next meeting. A grocery store is now being operated there.

Petition for Light

Petition for a street light on Chicago avenue north of Wilson avenue, signed by 27 persons, was referred to the street light and gas committee. The same committee was also asked to investigate a petition from six signers for a light on Fairview street east of Bryant street. A request for rearrangement of lights on Durfee drive was also received.

The ordinance and franchise and street and alley committees were directed to investigate an application from the American Malleable Casting Co. of 740 West Center street for closing of an alley and parts of two streets. D. L. LaMarche, company vice president, said in the application that a factory building to be operated in conjunction with the American Malleable company is planned.

The company's application stated the alleys sought to be closed are surrounded by company-owned lots and that the closing would not inconvenience the public. The company also seeks to close Cayuga street from the north side of West Center street to Hoyle street and also part of Hoyle street to the company's property limit.

Seeks Fire Hydrant

The waterworks and fire department committee was given a request from the Marion Metal Products Co. of 413 Monroe street for additional fire protection. Carl R. Meek, company official, wrote council that the company's insurance rates are exorbitant due to the inadequate water supply.

Reports of the relief department for January the police department and the police and firemen's pension funds were accepted.

The police pension report for the last half of 1939, submitted by Howard L. Andrews, secretary, showed a balance of $1,382.92 on Jan. 6, 1940. Hayse L. Rogers, chairman of the pension fund trustees, said the fund will be adequate for 1940.

Receipts since last July 1 totaled $5,936.31 and expenditures $6,391.78. The receipts included $137 in contributions of policemen to the fund over a three-month period. Contributions of two per cent of salaries were established in recent amendments by the legislature. Most of the receipts came from local taxes.

Fire Pension Report

The firemen's pension report for 1939 was submitted by L. W. Miller, secretary. It showed a balance of $4,490 on Dec. 31, 1939, compared with a balance of $4,018 on Dec. 31, 1938.

Receipts for the year totaled $8,333.41, of which firemen contributed $367.46 while $7,965.95 came from taxes. Expenditures for 1939 totaled $7,858.75, of which $7,774.25 was for pensions.

Councilman Dorsey, chairman of the firemen's board, reviewed the activities for the year. He mentioned two changes made in local regulations. One provides that widows receiving state compensation will not receive pensions until the compensation is ended. Another provides that the pension board has authority to call in disabled firemen for physical examinations to determine if they are fit for work. Formerly the chief had this authority.

Curb Recommended

The street and alley committee recommended construction of a curb on Latourette street under a WPA setup.

Councilman Johnson reported he had asked the service director to fix up a catch basin at Henry and Congress streets, reporting it "doesn't smell so good." The service director was also requested to see what can be done with a sidewalk on Silver street west of Leader, Mr. Johnson said.

Mr. Biggert again raised the question of whether the city could use the lot west of the hospital for parking. Clerk Walter Guthrie said the city owns the lot. No action was taken on the suggestion.

Social Affairs

THE SILVER anniversary of the organization of the Ben Hur Literary society was celebrated at a covered dish luncheon yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. L. Weimer of 851 Cleveland avenue.

Two of the five surviving charter members were present, Mrs S. B. Lewis and Mrs. B. F. Shurz. The other three, Mrs Anna Elicker of West Columbia street, Mrs. F. J. Hunter of Pearl street and Mrs. William Bonham of Vista, Calif., could not be present. Three patronesses, Mrs. George Lusch, Mrs Allen Middleton and Mrs. O. E. Williams, were guests.

A history of the club, written two years ago by the late Mrs Millie Tschanen, was read by Mrs. Zoa Davis. According to the history a group of women whose husbands were members of the Ben Hur lodge, a then-flourishing insurance order in Marion, met in the winter of 1914 and discussed forming of a club. The organization meeting was held on Feb. 15, 1915 and the name, the Ben Hur literary society, was adopted. The club was organized "for the purpose of intellectual and social culture," according to the history. The first officers were Mrs. R. O. Dolson, president; Mrs. Lydia Huston, vice president, Mrs. J. B. Layton, secretary, and Mrs. J. E. Rhoades, treasurer.

The club joined the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs in May of the year it was organized and became affiliated with the state federation in November of 1924. In the early years of its existence the club members met weekly to sew clothing and bedding for needy families and to replenish the city nurse's linen supplies. One winter the club distributed 400 pieces of clothing and made 13 comforts, record show.

Singing of "America" by the group opened yesterday's anniversary meeting. Mrs. Len Thompson sang and Mrs W. Dexter Hazen conducted devotions. Mrs. Bessie Saunders was in charge of the program. Disbennett conducted the devotions, and roll call responses were quotations on Lincoln. Mrs. Charles Snider read an article on the large telescope at Mt Palomar, Calif., and Mrs. Addie McNay contributed a paper on the pyramids of Egypt.

"National Parks and Beauty Spots of the United States" was the program topic presented by Mrs Mark Baker at a meeting of the Marion Sorosis club last evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas D. Bain on Sheridan road. Mrs. M. A. Hendel was an associated hostess. Completing the program hour were informal talks by the members on beauty spots they had visited. Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Critical at Madge's Optimism Over Olina's Role.

"I DON'T know that I like this," Dicky growled after I had hurriedly told him and Harry Underwood of the boon which Philip Veritzen had granted the Princess Olina. "Mary has the right to all the limelight in that play," Dicky added, "and it looks to me as if Olina were planning to hog a good slice of its for herself."

"I don't think she can," I said confidently. "Mary dominates that scene entirely. Olina will only enhance the background and provide a more beautiful setting."

"Optimism is a good thing," my husband said ironically, "but you can have too much of it. Now—"

"Pipe down!" Harry Underwood interrupted. "Here she comes!"

Olina, her royal dignity patently in abeyance, was almost running as she came into the library.

Dignity Forgotten

"Katie told me the harps were here," she said breathlessly. "Oh! hi there they are!" Her voice was a lilting carol as the truckmen lifted the last instrument from its casing. "How beautiful!"

She was in the midst of the harps in a second, stroking the wood and touched the strings. I gave a signaling nod to Dicky and Harry, then spoke to her softly:

"Do you need any of us while you make your choice?"

Her decision was prompt.

"No, indeed," she said, "except that I'd like to have these men within call when I want to have the harp I choose put into its place. Where is it to go?"

I indicated the position which I had worked out, and she nodded approvingly. Then I moved toward the door with Dicky and Harry in my wake, telling the truckmen to wait outside in the hall until the young lady should call them. I was careful not to give her title before them, for there was no use exciting idle comment.

When we were safely outside the door, Dicky gave me an approving pat upon my shoulder.

"You're an understanding wench," he said fondly, and Harry Underwood grinned an approving assent.

"Did you see the kid's eyes?" Harry asked. "If they'd been any bigger, they'd have slid right out over her cheeks."

"She hasn't seen a harp since her exile," I explained, "and her mother tells me she loved to play hers."

"We'll probably have a perpetual solo concert from now on," Dicky commented cynically. "But I suppose we ought to be thankful that she didn't set her youthful musical heart upon a saxophone."

I laughed dutifully as a wife should at a husband's jests, and moved toward the door. Dicky put out a lazy hand and grasped my elbow.

"Whither away, Fair One?" he gibed.

"I have to telephone Philip Veritzen," I said. "I promised to notify him the minute the harps should arrive."

"That means, I suppose," he rejoined, "that the Great White Light of Broadway will soon favor us with his presence."

"As soon as he can get here," I said, and my husband clutched Harry Underwood's arm.

Wants To Get Away

"Let's get far, far away—or as faw away as we can," he implored, "I am very fond of deah old Phil, but if I have to listen to him this morning, I simply shall curl up and die the death."

"Then please get out quickly," I urged, laughing. They followed me into the hall and then went upstairs while I telephoned Philip Veritzen.

"The harps have arrived," I said, "and Olina is even now choosing the one she wishes."

"I shall come over immediately," he answered. "Thank you for calling me. Good-bye," and the click of the receiver told me he was gone.

Mary's voice sounded a cautious "Sst!" from the stairway above me and, when I looked up, she gestured inquiringly toward the library.

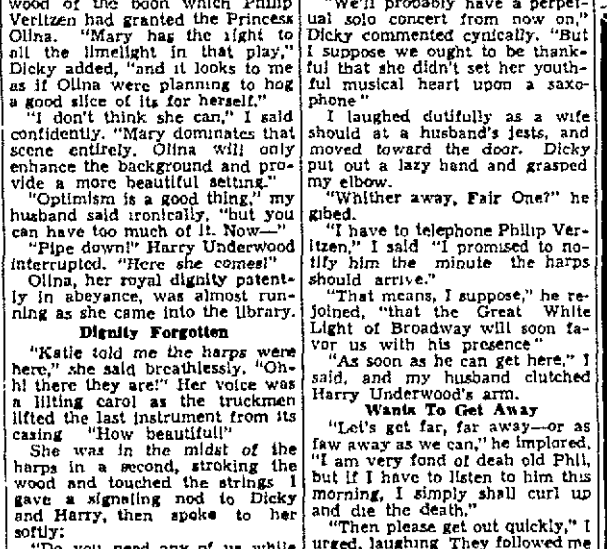

"Olina's choosing her harp," I said, "and your father-in-law is on his way over. I must wait here until she's made her choice so I can send the others back, and you would better dress for the fray."

"I'll do that little thing," she said, and vanished, just as Olina came out of the library door.

'HE-MEN' FEAR VACCINATION

By United Press

SAN JOSE, Calif.—Nurse Mabelle Frazer of the health department of San Jose State college finds that the big athletic type of men are the biggest sissies when it comes to being vaccinated with various serums. Her statistics show that 45 per cent more men faint than women during vaccination, and that the big athletes top the list.

70-MILE ICE FLOE MOVING

Boatmen Prepare To Resume Traffic as Ohio River Gorges Clear.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13—A 70-mile carriage of ice, softened by spring-like temperatures, moved down the Ohio toward its doom today as preparations were made for early resumption of river traffic.

A combination of several large floes and many smaller ones, the mass extended from Aurora, Ind., to a point near Louisville and was causing a minimum of damage as it rolled westward, lockmen reported. The ice was traveling at a speed of about four miles an hour.

Rains Raise River

The river, raised by rains and gorges but at no point in this section near flood stage, receded as the ice started out. The loss was confined to a few small boat harbors from which crafts had been removed.

Engineers at Louisville declared the lowest river level in years prevented repetition of ice damage in 1918 when heavy property losses were experienced.

Officials of the Greene line, operators of steamer service, announced they expected to resume operations on the river Thursday. Barge operators prepared for movement of crafts.

River traffic has been tied up for nearly a month. The largest ice gorge, at dam 39, Vevay, Ind., started moving out yesterday.

PARKER, Pa., Feb. 13—A steadily growing ice gorge jammed the Allegheny river today, forcing flood waters into low lying sections of this little community 60 miles north of Pittsburgh.

Some residents scurried for nearby hills as the river surged up ten feet within a few hours and passed the 23-foot mark, three feet above flood stage at this point.

CARDINGTON GIRL DIES FOLLOWING BRIEF ILLNESS

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, O., Feb. 13—Nine-year-old Bonita Lou Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cline Cherman of Cardington, died of acute cerebral meningitis today at 8 a. m. in Marion City hospital. She was taken to the hospital about 6:30 last night.

She was born in Cardington on March 5, 1930, daughter of Cline and Margaret Sherman. Her father is associated in the furniture business here with his father, Frank Sherman. A brother and sister, Richard Dale and Dana Lee, survive with the parents. The body is at the Curl funeral home.

HIT-SKIP DRIVER HELD IN DEATH OF 2 BOYS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13—A 26-year-old driver was held today in the hit-skip death of two Euclid Shore High school students and the injury of five others.

The youths, walking together in the street on their way home from basketball practice, were struck in front of the Euclid police station.

John Montana, 16, and Arvine Thompson, 15, were killed. The injured were Fred Lipovec, 17; Paul Rosa, 17; Joseph Bergoch, 16; Arthur Bolon, 17, and John Tarantino, 15.

Detective Herbert Brady said Anton Kucich Jr., was charged with manslaughter after he admitted "hitting something."

Detectives said they traced Kucich to his home through a description of the car which mowed down the boys from the rear.

Smart Conductor Thwarts Witt in Trolley Fare Move

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13—Cleveland's street-car riders pay a 10-cent cash fare.

Peter Witt, anti-management member of the Cleveland Railway company's board, says the legal fare is 8 cents.

Today he drew battle lines by advising all riders to pay only 8 cents.

Witt showed himself a true general by boarding a car and dropping a nickel and three pennies into the box. This preliminary thrust at the "enemy" was checked, however, as a cool conductor dropped in the other two cents.

Balked in his hope for arrest and a subsequent trial to determine the legality of the present traction rate structure, Crusader Witt declared:

"This is what I am going to pay for street-car rides from now on."

His message to other passengers: "The legal rate of fare on this car is 8 cents. All of you pay 8 cents and nothing will happen."

No one else tried it.

Meanwhile, company officials sought legal advice as to what till to tap to pay back the two cents to the conductor.

GOSPEL

follow Christ and literally quit.

Peter did not quit and thus revealed in his life the transforming power of the Gospel of Christ, the guest minister said.

"Peter did deny his Lord," he said, "but he did not give up in dismal defeat. He cried, he censured himself, he must have been tempted to do away with himself, but with the aid of the Spirit and power of God he was able to stand on his feet and begin life over again. When, 50 days after the Crucifixion, he preached on Pentecost Day, he delivered one of the really great sermons in the annals of the Christian faith. He did not quit, but in the power of God he carried on.

"No man ever quits if he turns to God for aid. No man is ever completely defeated if he stays near God. No man need to turn the white feather of cowardice to life for in the power of our Heavenly Father all men can go forth to fullness and completeness of life. The wonderful thing about Peter is that he reveals what God can do with a man who is repentant and who surrenders himself to his Father in Heaven."

Dr. Hastings then went on to show the meaning of being "transformed by the power of God." He contended that religion acts as a release for a man's life, saying: "You are freed from worry in the power of Christ."

In addition to favorite hymns sung by the large chorus choir, there was a duet selection by Mrs. Leo Keller and Miss Edema Koenig. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Trinity Baptist church read the Scripture lesson and Rev. Carl V. Roop of First United Brethren church offered prayer.

BIG ISSUES STILL BEFORE CONGRESS

Economy and Foreign Relations Yet Unsettled.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The congressional session which leaders hoped wistfully would be short and harmonious ended its sixth week today, with the two prime topics—federal economy and foreign relations—still in the talking stage.

The senate was winding up debate on extension of financial aid to Finland. It scheduled a vote on a measure to double the $100,000,000 capital of the export-import bank and thereby make possible additional loans both to Finland and China.

The house turned its attention to the navy appropriation bill, which involved not only an important economy test but also the question of how strongly the United States should arm in view of conditions abroad.

After the problem of helping Finland is disposed of, the next big question that congress probably will face is continuation of the reciprocal trade program. The house ways and means committee approved a three-year extension, and the house is expected to do likewise next week.

Even though the legislative output has not been large, congress has not been idle.

Neither branch has acted on one specific request of Mr. Roosevelt—$460,000,000 in new taxes to keep the federal debts under its $45,000,000,000 limit. Congressional leaders, ever aware of the approaching elections, cling to hope that expenditures can be held down to the point where it will be possible to avoid both new taxes and a higher debt limit.

SHIP CREW

Graf Spee into Montevideo, gave indications that the overhauling of the Wakama had been an easy matter.

Describing himself as a "passenger" aboard the Hawkins, the admiral said the Hawkins did not make any move against the Wakama.

Her holds stowed with heavy consignments of lard, hides, cotton-seed oil, mica, rock crystal and cacao, the Wakama had flashed an SOS yesterday, giving her position as 50 miles off Cabo Frio, east of Rio De Janeiro.

Since then some mystery had surrounded the fate of her crew, for previously a British sailor off the Hawkins had reported that the Wakama had been set afire but he could not tell what became of the crew.

A warship is under no obligation to pick up a crew that deliberately destroys its own ship, the sailor said.

See Ship Burning

The British admiralty has reported 23 German vessels totalling 139,236 tons scuttled by their crews to avoid capture up to Jan. 30.

"We were proceeding toward Rio, expecting to arrive at 8 a. m., Monday, when I suddenly realized we were going rapidly in the opposite direction," the Hawkins sailor said.

"One of the officers told me, 'we must be chasing the Wakama.' Then we saw her. But soon we saw fire coming from her, and we turned around and came back."

The Brazilian passenger ship Bage and the Spanish steamer Arriaga Mendi, both of which answered an SOS from the Wakama yesterday, reported they found nothing when they reached the position she had given about 50 miles off Cabo Frio, east of Rio De Janeiro.

The Wakama was the eighth German merchantman to leave a Brazilian port in an attempt to run the British blockade this year. Nine other Nazi freighters remain anchored in Brazilian ports.

BRITISH PATROLS

Orania, aggregating 10,128 tons.

Indication of British naval success was given in an official announcement giving the names of eight German submarine officers and men taken prisoners.

Since the war started 10,000 fishermen have entered the navy to help Britain fight a "three dimensional war" against submarines and mines, surface raiders and planes which have bombed and machine gunned fishing boats and lightships.

The air force issued a call today for radio experts, said to be wanted especially for the elaborate air defense system.

Repeated British contentions that their planes are superior to Germany's in quality, if not in numbers, were given support today by a highly-authoritative source, which said the RAF had shot down 59 German planes since the war began and damaged 20 others so that they were "probable losses."

On the other side of the ledger, British losses in these encounters have been 18 bombers and one coastal reconnaissance plane, but not a single fighter (pursuit) craft, the source said.

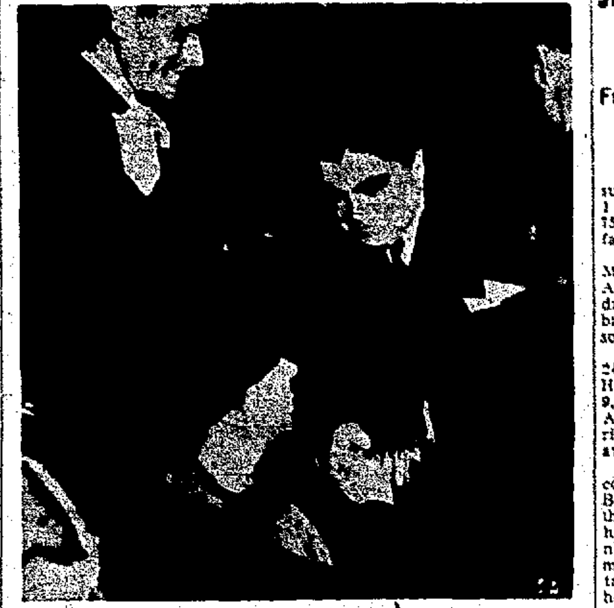

The Germans' losses were placed at about $4,000,000 worth of planes and 200 fliers.

TRUSTEES TAKE NO ACTION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—A letter seeking reinstatement of the Marxist club as an Ohio State university organization received no action from university trustees in meeting yesterday. The petition, submitted by the campus Y. M. C. A., was presented to the board by President Howard L. Bevis. The club was banned last summer following a trustees' sub-committee investigation of alleged un-American activities on the campus.

LEWIS ONLY MAD AT THE PRESIDENT

Shortly after John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, berated President Roosevelt in a speech before the American Youth Congress in Washington, he stepped down from the platform to greet one of his listeners—Mrs. Roosevelt. The congress gave Lewis a rousing ovation. Earlier, Mr. Roosevelt had addressed the delegates from the south portico of the White House.

Keep U. S. Free from Dictators, G.O.P. Speakers Plead in Lincoln Day Talks

By The Associated Press

Republican leaders rallied their party for the presidential campaign last night with Lincoln day appeals to encourage private enterprise and keep the American government free from dictatorship.

While former President Hoover was declaring that the United States must abandon a "national drift toward statism," active and potential presidential candidates were criticizing the New Deal and forecasting a Republican victory in November.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), speaking at Grand Rapids, Mich., described Abraham Lincoln as "our first coalition president." He said that Lincoln's reelection in 1864 by "all like-thinkers, regardless of party affiliations," set the pattern for 1940.

Dewey In West

Thomas E. Dewey of New York said at Portland, Ore., that the New Deal had failed to recognize a "constant erosion of capital." American development is lagging, he asserted.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a Greensboro, N. C., audience that continuation of the New Deal would mean a "modern, streamlined totalitarian dictatorship." The nation, he declared, faces a fundamental decision just as it did in 1860.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), another presidential candidate, said at Oklahoma City that Lincoln would want for present-day Americans "freedom from economic dependence or domination from the government as well as from private groups."

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 13—Ohio speakers at Lincoln day celebrations last night called for a Republican victory and defeat of the New Deal administration.

Gov. Bricker told an audience in Portsmouth that the "philosophy, power, thinking and words" of the Civil war president would aid the Republican party in its campaign.

Repeats WPA Charge

He reiterated a charge of WPA manipulation in Cleveland and asserted his administration would permit "no such sordid and partisan politics in relief and welfare."

At a banquet in Cincinnati, Rep. Thomas Jenkins of Ironton, Tenth district congressman, urged support of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft for the presidency and demanded defeat of the Roosevelt administration to end "extravagant spending."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Haberman of Westerville are parents of a son, Vance David, born Sunday at White Cross hospital in Columbus. Mr. Haberman is a former Marion resident.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Schrader of 358 Mary street are parents of a daughter born this morning at City hospital.

had been unable to crawl out through the opening.

Coroner A. R. Callander of Delaware assisted in removing the car from the river and after a preliminary examination of the body at the scene of the accident told officers that death resulted from accidental drowning. A few hours later, however, he indicated that he might make a further investigation of the accident when he ordered the Chyba car impounded at a Delaware garage.

The body was removed to the Ramsey-Mohr funeral home in Delaware and this morning was taken to Snyder funeral home in Galion.

Mr. Chyba was associated with the Delaware Stone company for several years before moving to Galion three years ago. Since going to Galion he had been associated with the Gledhill Co. At one time he was employed as an engineer on the Boulder Dam project in Nevada.

Native of Iowa

Mr. Chyba was a native of Cedar Rapids, Ia. He was a member of the Elks lodge and American Legion post at Delaware and was affiliated with the United Commercial Travelers group at Galion.

Surviving are his widow, who was Miss Lois Beck of Galion before her marriage to Mr. Chyba four years ago, and three sisters, Mrs. I. R. Firestone of Grove City, Mrs. J. R. Lilly of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Ernestine Chyba of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Friends may call at the Chyba residence on Harding Highway West in Galion.

RIGHT TO GARNISHEE U. S. EMPLOYES ASKED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—The National Retail Credit association will ask congress to remove legal barriers preventing garnishment of federal employes.

Lindley S. Crowder of St. Louis, general manager of the association, told credit executives from six states in convention here that the association's legislative committee probably would recommend passage of a bill permitting garnishment of federal employes in states which now allow such action against state and municipal workers.

Another proposal under consideration, he said, would permit garnishment of federal employes in all states.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 13—The Cleveland Ministerial association wants President Roosevelt to withdraw the rank of ambassador from Myron C. Taylor, emissary to the Vatican, and retain him "merely as a personal envoy to the Pope."

A resolution expressed "gratification" with the President's peace efforts and his "practical and promising expedient" of attempting to unite "the three great religious faiths of America," and added:

"It appears to us, however, that it is unfortunate that the President conferred ambassadorial rank upon his personal representative to the head of the Roman Catholic church. This act is contrary to the tradition and expressed law of the land."

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR FIGHTS U. S. DAM PLAN

Keeps Up Battle Despite Adverse Court Ruling.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 13—Oklahoma's red-haired governor, irked by a supreme court decision, bored into law books today for new strategy in his battle against the federal government over construction of the $54,000,000 Denison dam.

"Firing on Fort Sumter didn't end the Civil war, you know," growled Gov. Leon C. Phillips.

The cigar chewing chief executive went to the U. S. supreme court with an allegation that 100,000 acres of Oklahoma land would be inundated and that the government had invaded state's rights. The hydro-electric flood control project would dam Red river between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas.

The high tribunal, in a 4-4 decision yesterday, refused Oklahoma permission to enjoin Secretary Woodring from proceeding with the project.

The justice department contended the project was "a valid exercise of the powers granted congress to provide for the general welfare and to regulate interstate commerce."

"I don't have any more intention of quitting now than I did when I started," said Phillips. "They are not going to cover up our roads down there and not pay for it. It's not conclusive when four men say we haven't a right to be heard in court."

The physician treated David as the police and firemen cut off his clothes and dismantled the wringer, but death came before he could be freed.

BELLEVUE, O., Feb. 13—The rains came, and with them the threat of a water shortage in Bellevue abated. George A. Near East Army Opens New Allied War Possibilities

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The massing of Anglo-French troops about the end of the Mediterranean in the Near East is largely of a defensive nature at this juncture, but the offensive possibilities against either Germany or Russia, or both, are great.

For one thing we know, of course, that the Balkans may become the back-yard battlefield of the European war.

But a possibility which is even more startling is just now developing. If the allies in addition to their Near East front, also establish a new war-theater in Finland in the process of aiding the little republic against Russia, they will have created a mighty pair of pinchers about the Soviet's European side.

First note on your map that Turkey, lying on the Black sea opposite Russia and controlling the Dardanelles—one of the most important strategic points in the world—is the good ally of England and France. Not only is Turkey geographically powerful, but it has one of the finest, toughest armies in existence.

Russian Pact No Hindrance

You're about to remind me, I suppose, that Turkey's pact with the allies excludes war with Russia. Agreed, but that's not so much a matter of affection as expediency. Let the Soviet make a pass in that direction and see what the Turks do. They'll fight with Britain on a show-down. Greece also is pro-ally in sympathies.

Now if you will run down the coast from Turkey toward the Suez canal you will find those massed allied troops in Syria, Palestine and the canal zone—some 570,000 of them. Then we come to England's Egyptian ally, also of vast strategic importance.

So much for the soldiers, who must total close to a million already under arms, including 350,000 Turks and the Egyptians. The French plan to throw 700,000 more into Syria and the British are increasing their forces.

Thus, with a million more which the Turks could put into the field, the potential defensive force of the Near East is about 3,000,000. And we shouldn't overlook the many allied warships in the Mediterranean.

Spots To Protect

From the purely defensive standpoint, the spots which the allies want most to protect are the Suez Canal, and Iran and Iraq with their vast stores of oil that France and England want and can't afford to let the enemy get at. But the Anglo-French brotherhood also has pledged itself to protect Rumania from invasion. Your map will tell you that this probably would involve transporting troops to Rumania via the Black sea.

Obviously an alliance with Turkey and absolute control of the Dardanelles are essential for accomplishment of these great tasks.

They say that he who controls the Dardanelles also controls the eastern Mediterranean. For one thing the straits are the sole gateway to the Black sea. Then see how they form the lips of a tipped-up pitcher which is ready to pour trouble down on the Suez canal.

Britain calls the Suez the lifeline of empire, because it is the only direct and quick water-route to the Far East. That characterization is doubly true in war time.

As regards the Balkans, an invasion by Russia or Germany presumably would return that area once more into the "cockpit of southeastern Europe, with the allies supporting the small but fiery fighters. Should Russia be involved we might see those pincers in operation.

Drawings Made for Annual County Cage Tourney; First Games Thursday

Four Top Teams Seeded for Meet; Claridon Champs Face Meeker.

DRAWINGS for Marion county's class B high school basketball tournament, which gets underway at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium Thursday night, were made yesterday afternoon when school officials convened in the office of County Superintendent D. T. Mills.

Games on the inaugural program are: Claridon vs. Meeker at 7, Pleasant vs. Green Camp at 8, Caledonia vs. Prospect at 9 and Waldo vs. LaRue at 10.

Succeeding rounds will be played Saturday afternoon and night, Feb. 17; Thursday night, Feb. 22 and Saturday afternoon and night, Feb. 24.

Top Teams Seeded

Claridon, county league champion, and the club finishing in the first four positions in the standings, Caledonia, Pleasant and Waldo, were seeded into separate brackets. The practice, followed here in recent years, is to prevent top teams from meeting in initial contests.

The crown-wearing Augenstein-coached combine, which didn't lose any of 11 league starts, stacks up against Meeker, which failed to annex a single victory. A victory over Meeker will put Claridon into the second round against Martel, a second-division club which drew a bye.

Pleasant, favorite to stop Green Camp, would move from that duel to a second round contest with Kirkpatrick. The deposed champs are expected to have little trouble in either contest. Should both Pleasant and Claridon get by the first pair of games as they are slated to do, they will meet in the semi-final round of the upper bracket.

Two Brackets

In the lower bracket, Morral, holder of a bye, will play the winner of the Caledonia-Prospect clash. Agosta, drawing the fourth bye, will play the winner of the Waldo-LaRue contest. From this section will be chosen the semi-finalist to meet a club from the opposite bracket for the county tournament title.

Saturday afternoon games, Feb. 17, will consist of second round encounters; while the night session will mark the opening of the consolation games. As in the past each team must lose twice to be eliminated from further competition. Four games, two consolation and the pair of semi-final encounters are set for Thursday night, Feb. 22. Two consolation games are booked for Saturday afternoon, Feb. 24, preceding the championship finals, to be played that night.

Thirty-five cents admission will be charged at the final Thursday and Saturday night programs, while the admission for all other sessions has been set at 25 cents.

TOURNEY TO OPEN IN DELAWARE CO. FRIDAY

Four Leaders To Meet Four Bottom Teams.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Feb. 13 — Four leaders of the Delaware county high school basketball league will meet the quartet of teams at the bottom of the standings when the quintets tee off in first round tournament games here Friday night.

Sunbury, newly crowned champ, meets Orange in Friday night's final game. Ostrander, deposed crown-wearers, plays the opener against Bellpoint; Hyatts meets Brown and Berlin stacks up against Galena.

Four teams in the middle of the standings were given byes and moved into the second round to be played Saturday afternoon. There will be no games Saturday night since Edwards gymnasium will be in use for a college contest.

The tourney, to decide which three teams will represent the county at the district meet in Westerville, will continue, Feb. 23-24.

Schools to Enter Teams In Golden Gloves Meet

Scholastic participation in the Golden Gloves boxing tournament to be staged here next month has become a reality, officials of the annual ring classic announced today.

Marion Harding High school will be represented by a complete team of leather-pushers and other schools are showing an interest in following suit, Bob Hicks, general chairman, reported.

Entry of scholastic teams is the result of efforts to place special emphasis on city and county participation in the tourney. Plans now underway call for a special trophy to be offered any city or county school whose team makes the best showing in the meet.

Bill Williams, football coach, and Johnny Roberts, 1939 football captain and senior class president, are assisting with arrangements to enter the Harding team. Williams will direct preliminary training of prospective contestants.

Y. M. C. A. officials reported that equipment has been put in order for aspiring fighters to begin their training in special quarters at the Y. Entrants may workout daily and special classes have been arranged for each Tuesday and Thursday nights at 6:30. Jimmy Williams, matchmaker and Y boxing instructor, will have charge of the classes.

Nearly a dozen entries, all from Marion and surrounding section, have been filed. The tourney will be held March 5-7-12-14 at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium.

Tony Bets 10 G's He'll Stop Joe in Five Rounds

By The Associated Press

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 13—Tony Galento, who says his eyes "are 100 per cent," offered to bet anyone $10,000 today that he'll stop Joe Louis in five rounds if they meet this July for the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

Galento spiked a rumor he was going blind, saying he'd match his eyesight with that of anyone.

At first, the Beer Barrel Poker wanted Louis, his managers or his friends to take the bet, but he changed his mind and opened the offer "to anyone who'll give me the prevailing odds."

"Louis is through, finished," he said. "He couldn't hurt (Arturo) Godoy last Friday night. Godoy's ears and mouth were split after our six-round fight on the Louis-Braddock card in Chicago two summers ago. I wasn't even scratched."

PITCHERS GIVEN RIGHT TO TAKE EXTRA STEP

By The Associated Press

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 13—Relief has been a long time a-coming for the baseball pitcher, and he has taken some hard knocks in the past 20 years, but the elders of the game at last are getting in a mood to help him stand off the batters.

At its meeting here yesterday the rules committee voted with only one dissenter to allow all of the pitchers in the country to rear back and take another complete step as they deliver the ball. That is the first really important move toward helping the hurler that has been made since the rule-makers began abolishing freak deliveries back in 1919.

NOTRE DAME SQUEEZES PAST TOLEDO TEAM 38-30

By The Associated Press

Toledo basketball fans are still talking about the first 15 minutes of the Rockets' game with Notre Dame.

The Toledo five, entering the tussle with 19 victories in 23 contests, matched the favored Irish goal for goal and the score was tied four times in the quarter hour. Then the Ramblers slowly pulled away, took a 17 to 10 half-time lead, and wound up with a 38 to 30 triumph.

It was Notre Dame's 11th victory in 16 contests. Weakness from the foul line was a big factor in the Toledo defeat.

Iowa defeated Ohio State, 43 to 33; John Carroll tripped Akron, 30 to 27; and Kentucky downed Xavier, 37 to 29, in other tussles last night.

WHARTON FACES TWO MORE TITLE HURDLES

Must Beat Marseilles, Eden for Championship.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 13—Wharton High Dragons, zooming along in the lead of Wyandot county's high school basketball league, shellacked McCutchenville 43-26, last Friday and thereby moved a step nearer the 1940 crown. The Dragons must win two games remaining in the schedule, but their foes, Marseilles and Eden, hold second-division berths and should offer little threat to Wharton's chances.

Harpster and Salem, occupants of the two-three spots, will fight for the runner-up berth in their meeting at Salem, Friday. Harpster downed Nevada, 43-27, and Salem beat Eden, 44-23, to stay within a game of each other. Marseilles put Sycamore in the cellar for good by handing them the twelfth straight loss.

Friday's final round games are Eden at Sycamore, Harpster at Salem, McCutchenville at Nevada and Marseilles at Wharton. Two games, changed from other dates also remain to be played, Wharton vs. Eden and Sycamore vs. Nevada.

Woman Carves "Sports Hall of Fame"

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Sculptor Ruth Yates' two children are among the most constructive critics of her "sports hall of fame," which she is carving in marble, immortalizing the great figures in heroic size.

Every day after school, Ruth Jr., 18, and Dick, 14, drop in at their mother's downtown studio to see the chips of gray Vermont marble fall from the sculptured neck of Joe Louis.

Sometime this week they'll get a peek at Jack Dempsey posing for the second bust in the series, which is growing from a suggestion they made one summer day while on vacation with their mother in Texas.

They saw Joe Louis in a newsreel. "He'd be perfect for stone carving," the children whispered. "Mother, why don't you do Joe Louis?"

Mrs. Yates, who never had been much of a sports fan, is increasingly intrigued, as the series progresses, with the sculptural possibilities of the great sport figures. Her Dempsey head is now in the plaster model stage. When she finishes hewing it from marble, she hopes to do Sonja Henie in rose marble; and maybe after that the "greats" of baseball and polo.

The project took her and the children last summer to Joe Louis' Michigan training camp before the Bob Pastor fight. The Brown Bomber was a perfect model. He didn't bat an eye.

For nine days, sometime after bouts with five sparring partners, he posed for one or two hours, while his fans tried to watch through the windows. His hands were completely quiet. She was amazed at his muscular control.

As his features took form in plaster, he became so interested he forgot he was posing, and simply watched, with his chin in his hand. Once he warned, "don't give me a cauliflower ear."

Presto Chango, It's Gone

IN HIS pep talk for the benefit of American Youth congress President Roosevelt chided "certain types of newspapers and politicians" for "mangling and garbling" his recent assertion that the total debt of the people of the United States is less than it was in 1932—"around two billion dollars less in a nation which has six or seven million people more in it than eight years ago."

The quibble, of course, is inclusion of private debt in the presidential calculation. Mr. Roosevelt argues that despite increases in federal debt (he's still wrong about there being any decrease in non-federal debt, other than private) the total debt burden is lighter. Economists, no doubt, will be able to produce figures to prove the contrary, figures being the convenient gadgets they are.

But isn't the argument silly? To defend federal debt, which has jumped from less than 20 billion to more than 40 billion during his administration, Mr. Roosevelt is saying that it doesn't matter because there is less private debt, which may or may not be true. It is like saying that if a man has 20 bolls and $20, but gets 20 more bolls, meanwhile losing the $20 he is no worse off than when he had only half as many bolls. Private debt is the stuff that makes capitalism work; public debt is the stuff that makes it quit working. Even if the President's arithmetic held water, his economics wouldn't.

They're All for It

RESPONSES to Washington's announcement that Mr. Sumner Welles would be sent to Europe to carry on unofficial, exploratory conversations, presumably with a view to shortening the war and instituting a reign of peace are non-committal.

Now, as always before, the European nations are strong for peace, on their terms. They think it's preferable to war, all things being equal. They are willing to work for peace, with certain reservations. They expect to have peace again some day, but right now the belligerents are preoccupied with war and so are the neutrals.

This does not detract in the least from the importance of Mr. Welles' mission, which is left conveniently vague as to purpose. A man of his attainments should be able to discover a great deal of value for the information of the government. He might even be able to do something constructive about peace.

Government Real Estate

WHEN HOLC ended its three-year lending period in June, 1936, slightly more than one million loans totaling three billion dollars had been made under its authority. More than 400 million of this was poured into New York state to take up distressed mortgages of 80,145 small home owners.

The result to date has just been announced, nearly one-third of the New York state houses, or 25,754, have been taken over by HOLC by foreclosure or voluntary deed. Though more than one-eighth of HOLC funds were used in New York state, it is credited so far with only two per cent of the loans that have been repaid. One-sixth of all houses repossessed by HOLC are in the state. While borrowers throughout the nation have paid back 21.8 per cent of principal, New York states have paid back only 10.5 per cent. Of borrowers still keeping up payments, furthermore, 135,515 are listed as "making adjusted payments," which means they are on the ragged edge of foreclosure. It is reported that HOLC has quit bearing down on its clients and is devoting most of its energy in New York state to getting rid of the houses it has taken back. Its record there is believed to be easily the worst in the nation.

This probably has no direct connection with the fact that the Democratic party is leaning heavily on the solid south and New York's 47 electoral votes to give it a flying start for the great events of 1940.

Contraband Romper Suits

CONTRABAND is what one country doesn't want another country to get possession of in wartime. Under the guise of international law, it may be seized. In the absence of authority under law, it will be seized anyway. That's war.

Baic splitters argue that some things are not contraband. For instance, they might claim that a suit of rompers for a small baby was not contraband, on the theory that it has no bearing on the war.

But that would be realistic. A romper suit might give aid and comfort to a fledgling enemy and to his family and friends. In a small, but real, way it might influence the outcome of the fighting.

This is an extreme example. It is noted, however, that of 1,500 Europe-bound parcels examined on two United States vessels, the indefatigable British seized 1,403 as contraband. There might have been a romper suit among them. It might have had a map on the seat, printed in invisible ink. A belligerent can't afford to take chances.

News Behind the News

Congress, Court Behind SEC Decision Against Operating Big Utility Concern.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—The long invisible hand of congress was upon Chairman Jerome Frank's shoulder when he wrote the New York court his securities and exchange commission had decided not to try to run the great electric utility, Associated Gas and Electric, as trustee.

Mr. Frank swallowed hard before he wrote. He and his associates really planned and wanted to take over the utility as

Paul Mallon

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Attorney General Bob Jackson suggested. You can imagine the temptation confronting the New Dealers in getting their hands on the 50 to 80 operating companies in A. G. and E.—a formidable segment of the private utility empire.

But house leader, Sam Rayburn, and SEC friends in congress threw inside fits, when they heard what was up. They forcefully informed Mr. Frank et al that demands for a congressional investigation of SEC were growing in congress. If Frank's agency stepped out of its regulatory role and attempted to go into the utility business, an inquiry could not be avoided, they said.

One other event completed their resolution. Federal District Judge Leibell had warned SEC and all prospective trustees he would hold them responsible for the management, and the utility haters did not relish the idea of being responsible to a court.

Ships, Not Shoes

Planning: Not shoes but ships are the primary surplus war materials Mr. Roosevelt is moving to sell. Practically all of his White House conferences with Secretaries Edison, Woodring, and Hull was taken up with discussions about how many ships—cruisers as well as destroyers — could be sold to neutrals, particularly to Norway and Sweden. Very little time was spent on the 450,000 pairs of antique shoes and other surplus army materials available for sale. Little foreign interest has been manifest in shoes. But the official publicity about the meeting was centered on them in preference to the major ship sales plan.

Coal Commission System

Pixies: A Mannerheim line has been established around the coal commission. Visitors at that government agency are required to go through more rigamarole to get in than is customary around Helsinki. Callers are required to register their names, their business and whom they want to see in applications for passes, and then are escorted to the particular official by a guard.

A reporter investigated complaints that such an extra protective system had been established. He found a sign in the entrance lobby: "Visitors Please Register," and a number of people sitting on a bench waiting for escort guards. Asking to see a certain spokesman for the commission, he registered and was guided to that officer.

The spokesman explained the great defensive line of the commission had been established because Interior Secretary Ickes did not want any coal operators "sneaking up the back stairs" and finding out what minimum prices the trial examiners are setting. The spokesman also explained the system would prevent any one with a large bankroll from strolling in and purchasing information from employes. Coal operators were advised, he added, and consented.

No breaches of faith on the part of employes were responsible for the order. Incidentally, no on need abide by it. If a caller protests against registration, he could not be legally barred. Only two out of 228 callers since the order has been in effect knew enough to protest. They got in.

War Games

Wuxtra: The war department press room was electrified by a flash: "War will break out shortly between Louisiana and Texas." It will be an Orson Welles war—but with a purpose. A line already has been established by opposing maneuvering army forces on the Louisiana-Texas boundary. About 10,000 troops will be thrown in on the Louisiana line, infantry, cavalry and motorized units. The Texas defenses will be three infantry divisions.

Army is planning this needed training to test defense against southern invasion.

Pigeon-Hole Story

Eclat: The President is telling callers with relish the now classic account of Secretary Hull's pigeonholing of Soviet Ambassador Oumansky's protest. The President swings his cigaret holder in sweeping gestures and chuckles as he relates how Mr. Hull drew the envelope from his desk, deposited Oumansky's protest, and said: "This will be our little pigeonhole."

Finnish Troubles

Anxiety: Finns have bottled up in censorship their most recent difficulties with the Russians. Reds have now again seized the offensive for the first time since the start of the war, and outcome is anxiously awaited here. Worst inside Finnish deficiency is they are not able to relieve their troops from front line duty for rest periods. No fighters were allowed to remain more than five days at the front in the World war, but the Finns are so deficient in reserves that they have kept their men in the Mannerheim line unrelieved from the outset.

Finnish victories which their censors continue to herald are almost always in the north where fighting is comparatively unimportant.

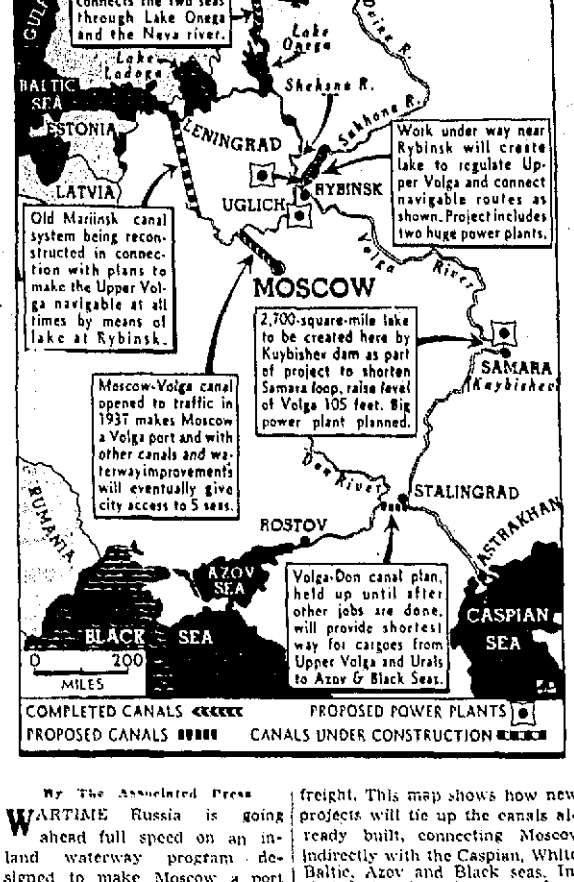

All important fingers here are crossed in a prayer for the Finns pow.

Russia's Canal System

When Completed, It Will Free Trains for War Use.

By The Associated Press

WARTIME Russia is going ahead full speed on an inland waterway program designed to make Moscow a port of five seas by 1945. Begun in peacetime, the project will have a direct bearing on the wars if they continue. For its completion will enable ocean-going vessels to travel through the heart of Russia. Thus the system will make it possible to divert tens of thousands of tons of freight from Russia's over-taxed railways, freeing thousands of cars for military freight. This map shows how new projects will tie up the canals already built, connecting Moscow indirectly with the Caspian, White, Baltic, Azov and Black seas. Included in the plans are huge dams and power plants which will provide for an annual electrical output of sixty-billion kilowatt-hours, as well as irrigation for the vast fertile, but drouth-stricken, Volga steppes.

Operating on house current, a device has been invented for photographic dark rooms that announces the passing seconds by audible taps with a hammer.

Welles Mission Believed To Be Concerned More With Its Effect Here Than Abroad.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE explanation of the President's move in sending Sumner Welles to Europe, together with Cordell Hull's statement of "undertakings with the neutrals with a view to a sound and lasting peace," is to be found, I believe, chiefly in the United States and in the presidential campaign, and only secondarily in Europe.

The 1940 presidential campaign is extremely dull so far. The war in Europe has pushed domestic affairs into the background, and is bound to do so, for the possibility of any return to normalcy in this country depends upon the course and outcome of the European war, no matter how neutral we may feel and no matter how we may tout isolationism. The strongest card that the President has in the campaign is his foreign policy, and the strongest argument that can be advanced for a third term, or for a Democratic candidate of Mr. Roosevelt's own choice, is the advisability of continuity in foreign policy.

Mr. Welles's "secret" mission—secret diplomacy openly arrived at—suggests no positive action; it does suggest continuing action. Mr. Welles is to report to the President and the secretary of state alone—the delicacy of the matter contained in his reports will justify this—and the President will then be able to claim superior information against any successors of Senator Borah who may think they know better.

Mr. Welles's trip is going to take quite a little time. He leaves on Feb. 17; he arrives in Rome at the very end of the month; afterward he must travel to all the other capitals, and that will take six or eight weeks. His report will require consideration—and by late spring something else will probably have happened with or without the presence of Mr Welles in Europe.

Preparation for Peace

At the same time Mr Hull's statement indicates that the visit of Mr. Welles is not concerned with entangling us in the war, but rather with preparations for peace. That is also good campaign material. It is also, I believe, entirely sincere. I do not share the belief of many that the President desires a third term. What he would really welcome—I believe—is peace in 1940, provided a peace could be made that would hold the promise of a real renewal and revival of co-operation and civilization.

Such a peace, made with his collaboration, would crown his administration, and he would retire to Hyde Park and leave the next four years to a successor—as Mr. Coolidge left, to Herbert Hoover, prosperity and prohibition!

But Mr. Roosevelt knows as well as any other knowledgeable person that no such peace can be made as long as two men hold the power that they do at present in the world. There can be no peace except on the basis of the distribution of power. There will be no posisbility of continuing peace as long as Hitler and Stalin can let loose whatever forces they choose whenever they choose.

Hitler's mania let loose this war, and Europe can not and will not make peace with Hitler.

Governments might be willing to do so, but the price they would pay would be popular revolt at home. Before there is real peace Stalin must retire to Russia and Germany must have a government capable of participating in a conference. Germany's present government is not. And everybody knows that—the neutrals as well as the Allied belligerents.

Mussolini is in a different position. His power in Italy is already considerably diminished. His friend Hitler and Hitler's henchman Ribbentrop betrayed Mussolini in a really gangster way on the Russian deal; and the king played a leading part in the events that followed in Italy. Had Mussolini tried to stick to the axis and go all the way with Germany he would certainly have fallen in Italy, and the king and the army would have taken things over. The king is not pro-Nazi and neither are the Italian people.

Wants U. S. To Have Some Say

Mr. Roosevelt certainly wants the United States to have something to say about the form of political and economic organization that eventually emerges in Europe.

Mr. Welles's mission may be somewhat embarrassing to all the belligerents. For if Hitler can state any peace terms that do not add up to German hegemony over Europe, he will be a more fearful and wonderful liar than ever; on the other hand, it would be difficult for the circles in France who want to atomize Germany to tell that story to the representative of the state department.

The northern neutrals have constructive and reasonable ideas for a reorganization of Europe in which their way of life could go on; and the United States is thus, in advance, suggesting that their views should be consulted.

Incidentally, all of the northern neutrals are pro-Ally at this moment, however neutral they may claim to be, for the simple reason that a Nazi victory means the end of them. But they might not necessarily welcome the Allied conception of a new Europe, once the war is over.

If, however, the President's move is interpreted as a big peace offensive, in behalf of immediate armistice and negotiation, that will be most unfortunate. For such a mission now would have the nature of a Runciman mission. An armistice at this moment could only serve the Nazis and the Stalinists, as Runciman served Hitler's program in Czechoslovakia.

Rayburn, Williams Winners In Rough Team Wrestle Contest

Billy Rayburn and Al Williams, favorites of a packed house, cast themselves in the roles of conquering heroes when they triumphed over Martino Angelo and Jack Hagen last night at the Steam Shovel arena in a team fight of wild, roughouse battling.

For the full 39 minutes the quartet was in the ring their imbroglio resembled little else but a back-alley brawl. It was a thrill-packed performance for one of the largest crowds to witness a fight program here in several months.

Angelo-Hagen dished up all the rough stuff in the books to win the first round in a little less than 16 minutes. They wrapped Rayburn's neck between the ropes and proceeded to annihilate Williams, while his hapless partner struggled to get free. Hagen dropped Williams back-first over Angelo's bended knee and when the rough duo floored him they turned their efforts to Rayburn. They used the same backbreaker to wind up the round.

Try Same Tactics Again

The Angelo-Hagen duo attempted the same tactics in the second but the barrage missed fire. Rayburn rushed Hagen into the ropes and at the same time Williams spilled the squaty little Italian into the canvas. Rayburn dived in to assist in pinning Angelo and then the favorites turned their sole attention to Hagen. They took turns smashing him to the mat with teeth-jarring jams to the jaw and polished him off with a series of chest punts. The round was timed at 10 minutes.

When Angelo sought the ropes for protection in the third round he committed an error. Williams seized the opportunity to wrap the Italian in the strands, and before he could free himself his foes had pinned his partner. This time it was Angelo who faced the fury of the pair of excellent team fighters. He took a terrific lacing, being the target for well-aimed punches that were thrown in turn by Williams and Rayburn as one or the other held the unlucky Italian in a headlock.

Hagen Floors Partner

Hagen, who remained at ringside after being floored, hopped back into the ring to aid his partner. It was his blow, aimed at Williams, that landed on Angelo's jaw and finished the task for the victors. The final fall went 12 minutes.

Gil LaCrosse, Boston's burly battler, whipped George Wagner of Houston, Tex., in consecutive falls in a rousing one-hour preliminary. Gil took the first fall in 17 minutes with a backbreaker over the ropes followed by a series of body slams. He won the second in 16 minutes with a crab hold.

FOREST, MARSEILLES CHURCHES CALL PASTOR

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Feb. 13—The Marseilles and Forest Presbyterian churches today joined in a call to Rev. Frank W. Duggan, pastor of the Bosworth Presbyterian church of Cleveland, and appointed Mrs. L. C. Brown, Mrs. R. Lease, Paul Harlle and H. D. Youngs to present the call before the Ohio general assembly in the spring. Rev. Duggan told Dr. Homer G. McMillen, moderator of the Marion Presbytery, that he would accept the call.

But He's Happy

Arturo Godoy, a tough hombre from Chile who managed to stay fifteen rounds with Joe Louis in New York, looks as pleased as though he had won the championship. Sawyer Sees Roosevelt Only Hope for Democratic Success in November

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13—National Committeeman Charles Sawyer views President Roosevelt's renomination as the "only hope" for Democratic success in the November election.

Sawyer reiterated his indorsement of the President following yesterday's call for party central and executive committee members to decide at a meeting Saturday whether to support Roosevelt for a third term.

"I am hopeful that this meeting, affording an opportunity for these committees to function effectively in representing party opinion in Ohio, will result in a constructive and harmonious program," Sawyer said.

"I have no other suggestions to make regarding procedure to be followed in order to assure proper representation of party opinion.

"My interpretation of that opinion is well known, as is my personal attitude toward the President. I feel that we can not hope to achieve success unless we give unqualified support to him and his program."

Striking a harmony note, Sawyer suggested that Ohio's delegation to the Democratic national convention include former Gov. Davey, whom he defeated for a third term nomination in a bitter 1938 primary battle.

Davey was not named in a tentative slate of convention delegates Arthur L. Limbach, state executive committee chairman, recently announced would be pledged nominally to Sen. Vic Donahey.

The former governor declined comment on Sawyer's suggestion.

Donahey Stands Firm

Donahey declared he wouldn't be anyone's "stalking horse," but agreed to abide by the decision of the committee.

Limbach and Earl H. Hanefeld, central committee chairman, issued the official joint session call.

"The primary purpose of the meeting," the call stated, "is to discuss and set forth the policy which shall govern the choice of delegates to and the attitude of these delegates at the Democratic national convention."

Sawyer proposed that Donahey, former Sen. Robert J. Bulkley and former governors James M. Cox and George White be named delegates.

Donahey could be both "favorite son" and a delegate candidate by giving written consent as a presidential candidate for his own candidacy as a delegate, although the procedure would be new in Ohio.

Should Donahey decline the "favorite son" role, Sawyer was considered likely to receive it.

CHEAP STOCKS GET ATTENTION

Socalled Leaders Passed Up Today as Low Priced Issues Get Play.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 13—Buyers got behind a handful of low-priced issues in today's stock market and generally neglected the socalled leaders.

The list got off to a fairly active start, but soon reverted to sluggishness Near the fourth hour fractional gains predominated.

Traders came back from their length holiday without strong speculative opinions either way

Bonds were up in spots with Latin-Americans in demand Commodities as well as European securities markets were mixed

Among stocks, new 1939-40 highs were posted for Studebaker Martin-Parry and Loft in relatively lively dealings Attracting modest support were Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, International Paper preferred, Bethlehem General Motors, Chrysler and Pennsylvania

Pointing upward in the curb were Aluminum of America, Electric Bond & Share Phoenix Securities and American Cyanamid B

Studebaker, on the "big board" drew a following as the company announced January sales were the largest for that month since 1923 and exceeded the 1939 period by 80 per cent

Other motors were aided to a certain extent by forecasts the February turnout of new cars would amount to about 375,000 units instead of the 350,000 scheduled a week ago

U S Steel shifted over a slim groove most of the day The corporation's January shipments showed a drop of 298 378 net tons from December but a gain of 274-726 over the comparable month last year

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Feb. 14

A very lively and ambitious day, but not without its setbacks and dangers, is forecast. While things may move at high pressure, there also will be tenacious obstacles and delays to reckon with. The mind will be well stimulated for really creative work.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy an interesting and eventful year, with much progress and ingenuity. But be prepared for some delays, probable postponements and tenacious obstacles.

A child born on this day may have a studious and friendly nature. It should have business ability, making a good success of its affairs.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

BOLERO ENSEMBLE FOR SPRING

PATTERN 4391

Here's a gay herald of Spring fashion—this stunning bolero ensemble, Anne Adams' Pattern 4391. Notice how the two front panels of the skirt "point up" fashion, forming a smart, high waistline. Fullness above the seaming gives a lovely bodice softness. Let a wide sash come from the sides to tie in back, or use an all-around, front-tying belt. Trim the pretty V-neck and puffed sleeves with ruffling. To give a three-piece-suit effect, you might make bodice and sleeves in colorfully printed contrast; jacket, skirt and sash in one of the new pastels.

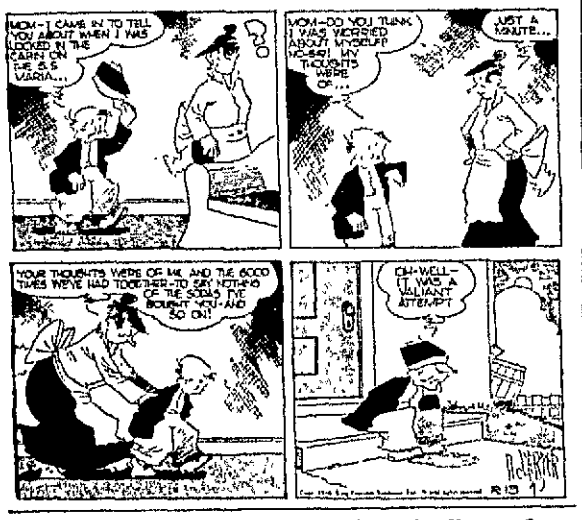

Pattern 4391 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16, skirt and bolero, takes 2¼ yards 39 inch fabric, and bodice, 1⅛ yards contrast.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.
